Disclaimer

This audit was performed using artificial intelligence tools to evaluate the presence and strength of classical education principles on school websites. Results are automated, probabilistic in nature, and should be considered indicative rather than definitive. See the full disclaimer in the Appendix more details.

ACCS Member School

Any school that belongs to the Association of Classical Christian Schools ACCS or the Society for Classical Learning SCL is, by definition, recognized as a classical school because both organizations require adherence to the six essential elements defined by the Humanitas Institute. However, a school's website may not clearly reflect its conformity to one or more elements. In such cases, the school may still receive a "Somewhat Classical" rating for those elements. Schools can update their website content at any time to achieve a "Classical" rating for a given element.

Executive Summary

Coram Deo Academy (Dallas, TX 75240) presents a robust Classical Christian program with strong religious and metaphysical foundations, a clearly stated telos oriented toward virtue and wisdom, a trinitade curriculum (grammar–logic–rhetoric), and pedagogy that blends contemplative memory work with Socratic discourse in upper grades. Public materials emphasize Christ-centered, biblical worldview integration across subjects, a collaborative model that partners with families, and a Portrait of a Graduate focused on ethical servant leadership and wise thinking. Across six rubric categories, the school demonstrates pervasive classical commitments with very few signals of non-classical approaches.

Overall, the school is CLASSICAL.

- Evidence highlights include: Christ-centered learning with theology woven into academics and chapel-based realities (Religious and Metaphysical Foundations) ; a mission centered on virtue, wisdom, and shaping culture for God's glory (Purpose and Goal) ; explicit Grammar/Logic/Rhetoric progression, Latin, and attention to historical study and great works (Curriculum) ; a pedagogy featuring memory work, chanting, Socratic discussion, and rhetoric in upper grades (Pedagogy) ; a faculty culture described as living curriculum and mentors (Faculty) ; and strong parent partnership with at-home learning and open campus/community engagement (Parents & Community) .

Executive Summary — Element-by-Element Snapshot

Element 1: Religious and Metaphysical Foundations — CLASSICAL

- Evidence
 - Public materials describe a Christ-centered education with theology woven into every subject, Bible curricula, and chapel-based growth in God's Word. The school uses phrases like "biblical worldview," "The Bible is foundational to our educational approach," and "Christ-centered, Classical education" as core descriptors.
 - The Latin phrase coram Deo and language about living in the presence of God are used to frame teacher/student life. Chapel, worship, and daily Scripture/prayer references appear in multiple pages.
- Positive/Negative keyword analysis
 - Positive keywords present (examples): Christ-centered, biblical worldview, theology woven into academics, Bible curriculum, chapel, God's Word, coram Deo, liturgy/worship references, sacred text.
 - Negative keywords present: none detected in the public materials.
 - Indicative keyword set aligns with Positive Keywords from the Six Essential Elements lexicon (e.g., truth, theology, liturgy, worship, wonder). The school's materials map closely to these indicators. See the Positive Keyword and Religious Foundations lists in the classical lexicon.
- Why this rating

- The materials demonstrate transcendental moral realism in practice (truths anchored in Scripture, eternal truths) and explicit liturgical/community practices (chapel, Scripture, rhythms of worship). The alignment with “theology grounded, liturgical practices, and worship” signals a strong Classical Christian foundation. This category is CLASSICAL.

Element 2: School Purpose and Goal — CLASSICAL

- Evidence
 - The school states a mission to shape ethical servant leaders and wise thinkers who will impact culture for the glory of God, emphasizing formation of virtue and human flourishing rather than mere job preparation.
 - Materials describe formation-oriented aims (virtue, wisdom, character) and a portrait of a graduate focused on moral imagination and service.
 - Language about formation over information and the pursuit of truths like truth/goodness/beauty appears in core messages.
- Positive/Negative keyword analysis
 - Positive keywords present: formation, cultivation of virtue, wisdom, character, moral imagination, love of learning, ethical leadership, glory of God.
 - Negative keywords present: none indicating a shift toward workforce-centric or utilitarian aims.
 - These align with Positive Keywords in Element 2 of the Six Elements lexicon (virtue, wisdom, formation, teleology, true/good/beautiful).
- Why this rating
 - The school articulates Bildung-like aims (virtue and wisdom as primary telos) and a teleological view of education, not purely vocational training. CLASSICAL.

Element 3: School Curriculum — CLASSICAL

- Evidence
 - Clear articulation of the Trivium progression: Grammar School, Logic School, Rhetoric School; Latin begins in early grades and Latin I is a graduation requirement.
 - Emphasis on liberal arts content, history embedded across the curriculum, and exposure to great works (great works of history, literature, and art) as part of the classical curriculum.
 - Emphasis on Biblical worldview integrated across curriculum (Bible in Curriculum, Biblical Worldview, etc.).
- Positive/Negative keyword analysis
 - Positive keywords present: grammar, logic, rhetoric, liberal arts, history, great books/works, Latin, biblical worldview, integration of Bible across curriculum.
 - Negative keywords present: None evident (no explicit “project-based,” nontraditional, or social-studies-as-history substitution signals detected in school materials).
 - This category aligns with the Six Elements’ Curriculum indicators (grammar/logic/rhetoric; great books; history across curriculum; Latin; wonder).
- Why this rating
 - The curriculum explicitly centers the liberal arts and the Trivium with a historic-canonical bent, and includes Latin and Great-Books-like engagement, satisfying CLASSICAL criteria. CLASSICAL.

Element 4: School Pedagogy or Teaching Methods — CLASSICAL

- Evidence
 - Pedagogical approach includes lower-school singing/chanting for memory and delight, and upper-school Socratic discussion, along with rhetoric, speeches, and debates. This matches the expected progression from scholé-like memory work to Socratic and rhetorical activities in higher grades.
 - Public materials mention memory work, recitation, vocab/storytelling, and a transition to logic and rhetoric through the grades.

- Explicit reference to Socratic discussion in upper grades and opportunities to exercise rhetoric (public speaking, debate).
 - Positive/Negative keyword analysis
 - Positive keywords present: singing/chanting, memory work, narration/recitation, Scholé (memory/restful learning), Socratic discussion, rhetoric, debate, public speaking.
 - Negative keywords present: minimal (no explicit emphasis on sole project-based or constructivist-only approaches).
 - The presence of both contemplative scholé aspects and Socratic/rhetoric pedagogy lines up squarely with Classical pedagogy indicators. See the Pedagogy lexicon and the school's stated practices.
 - Why this rating
 - The school's pedagogy embodies the shift from memorization and liturgical/restful learning to dialogic, rhetorical, and public-speaking activities characteristic of a Classical education. CLASSICAL.

Element 5: School Faculty — CLASSICAL

- Evidence
 - Faculty are described as model teachers who live the curriculum and mentor students; the living-curriculum concept is explicit in the materials.
 - Public materials reference faculty who pray for students, care for spiritual growth, and a faculty culture described as collaborative and collegial.
 - Portraits of teacher-qualifications and the teachers as central to the student experience are described (e.g., “the living curriculum” and “teacher as mentor”).
- Positive/Negative keyword analysis
 - Positive keywords present: living curriculum, model teachers, mentors, portrait of a teacher, faculty as core to the school, collegial culture.
 - Negative keywords present: minimal (no signals of detached or purely administrative-faculty roles).
 - This aligns with the Six Elements' Faculty indicators (model teachers and mentors; living curriculum; portrait of a teacher).
- Why this rating
 - The school presents a strong, virtue-oriented faculty culture with teachers as central, engaged, and collaborative. CLASSICAL.

Element 6: Parents & Community — CLASSICAL

- Evidence
 - The school emphasizes a true partnership with parents via the collaborative university schedule, guidance to parents for at-home learning, and resources provided to reinforce mastery at home. The language explicitly frames parents as primary educators and co-teachers.
 - Parents are welcome to visits; materials describe parent formation and classical book/gatherings for learning more about classical education.
 - Public materials discuss family discipleship, Scripture engagement, and daily family rhythms of worship as part of the educational model.
- Positive/Negative keyword analysis
 - Positive keywords present: partnership with families, co-teachers, parental formation, at-home learning, open campus/access for parent visits, family rhythms, Scripture-prayer, and home-school collaboration.
 - Negative keywords present: none detected in the public materials.
 - These map to the “Parents and Community” positive indicators in the Six Elements lexicon.
- Why this rating

- The school demonstrates robust parental partnership and community integration, consistent with Classical expectations. CLASSICAL.

Aggregate assessment: The school is CLASSICAL across all six categories.

What Would Move the Needle

- Not applicable for an aggregate SOMEWHAT CLASSICAL rating. No major needle-moving changes are required. The evidence across all six categories sustains CLASSICAL status.

ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE DISCLAIMER

This audit was conducted using artificial intelligence tools (including large language models and automated web-analysis scripts) to evaluate the extent to which school websites reflect or incorporate recognized principles of classical education (e.g., the trivium, emphasis on truth/beauty/goodness, integration of great books, Latin/classical languages, Socratic method, rigorous academics, moral/character formation, etc.).

Important Limitations and Caveats

1. Automated Nature: The analysis relies on AI interpretation of publicly-accessible school website content as of the date of the audit. It does not involve direct contact with schools, review of internal documents, classroom observation, or verification of curriculum implementation beyond what is stated or implied on the website.
2. Probabilistic Results: Scores and assessments are probabilistic and reflect the AI's best interpretation of available text and site structure. They are not infallible and may miss nuance, context, or recent changes not yet reflected online.
3. Subjectivity of Classical Education: "Classical Education" encompasses a range of traditions and interpretations (e.g., Dorothy Sayers' trivium model, Classical Christian Education, Great Books programs, etc.). The Humanitas Institute Audit of the Six Elements of Classical Education uses a broad, consensus-based framework derived from prominent classical education organizations and thought leaders. Reasonable people may disagree on weighting or inclusion of specific criteria.
4. No Official Endorsement or Certification: Results do not constitute official endorsement, accreditation, or certification by any classical education organization. They are provided for informational and research purposes only.
5. Potential for Error: Websites may be incomplete, poorly worded, or temporarily inaccurate. Conversely, sophisticated marketing language may create false positives. Human review by parents, educators, or classical education experts is strongly recommended before drawing final conclusions about any school.
6. Data Privacy and Ethics: Only publicly available information was analyzed. No attempts were made to access password-protected areas or collect personal data.
7. No Liability: The authors, developers, and distributors of this audit assume no liability for decisions made on the basis of these results. Users are solely responsible for their own due diligence.
