

The Humanitas Institute

Six Elements of Classical Education School Website Audit

School: Christ the Savior Academy
School Website: <https://csawichita.org/>

December 22, 2025

Disclaimer

This audit was performed using artificial intelligence tools to evaluate the presence and strength of classical education principles on school websites. Results are automated, probabilistic in nature, and should be considered indicative rather than definitive. See the full disclaimer in the Appendix more details.

ACCS Member School

Any school that belongs to the Association of Classical Christian Schools ACCS or the Society for Classical Learning SCL is, by definition, recognized as a classical school because both organizations require adherence to the six essential elements defined by the Humanitas Institute. However, a school's website may not clearly reflect its conformity to one or more elements. In such cases, the school may still receive a "Somewhat Classical" rating for those elements. Schools can update their website content at any time to achieve a "Classical" rating for a given element.

Executive Summary

Christ the Savior Academy (CSA) in Wichita, KS 67206 presents a robust Classical Christian program that privileges Orthodox Christian faith, the classical trivium (grammar, logic, rhetoric), and a Great Books-informed curriculum aligned with the Great Conversation. Public-facing materials consistently emphasize faith integration, liturgical practice, and character formation, while also foregrounding rigorous liberal arts study, small class sizes, and active parental partnership. Across the six classical-elements categories, CSA exhibits strongest alignment in Curriculum, Pedagogy, Faculty, and Parents & Community, with clear but less explicit signaling in the Religious & Metaphysical Foundations category (due to occasional emphasis on faith-life integration rather than formal doctrinal frameworks). Overall, CSA earns a CLASSICAL rating, with a coherent throughline from mission and faith to pedagogy and community life.

Key strengths include: - Religious and metaphysical foundations expressed through Orthodox Christian identity, liturgical life, daily prayer, and sacred communal practices. - Clear formation-oriented purposes (virtue, wisdom, human flourishing) stated in mission and values, not primarily job-prep. - A fully articulated curriculum rooted in the liberal arts with grammar/logic/rhetoric, Greek/Latin, Great Books, and a history-centered approach. - Pedagogy anchored in the classical trivium and memory-work/recitation traditions (with explicit mention of grammar/logic/rhetoric progression and memory work). - Faculty and staff described as dedicated, with a "living curriculum" ethos and emphasis on mentorship and virtue. - Strong parental partnership and community involvement, including parent resources, tours, and family engagement.

Executive Summary — Element-by-Element Snapshot

Element 1: Religious and Metaphysical Foundations — CLASSICAL

- Evidence: CSA presents Orthodox Christian identity integrated into the daily life of the school (prayer, liturgical life, cathedral setting), and frames education as formation in faith alongside intellectual development.
- Positive/Negative keyword analysis: Present keywords include Orthodox Christian, liturgy/worship, prayer, cathedral, Scripture, saints, faith formation. No explicit signals of relativism or secularization appear in public materials.
- Why this rating: The materials foreground transcendental religious commitments and liturgical practices as foundational to education, which aligns strongly with the Positive keyword indicators around theology, liturgy, and sacred communal practice; there are no evident Negative signals in the public materials.

Element 2: School Purpose and Goal — CLASSICAL

- Evidence: Mission statements emphasize formation of virtue and wisdom, not mere job-readiness; education is presented as formation of character and human excellence.
- Positive/Negative keyword analysis: Positive keywords include formation, virtue, wisdom, contemplation, love of learning, and moral imagination (aligned with the Six Elements lexicon). Negative keywords (in contrast) are not present in CSA materials.
- Why this rating: CSA explicitly prioritizes virtue, wisdom, and permanent questions over careerism, echoing the classical paideia aim and the transcendental triad of truth, goodness, and beauty.

Element 3: Curriculum — CLASSICAL

- Evidence: The curriculum is described as liberal-arts-centric with the Grammar–Logic–Rhetoric progression, Greek/Latin study, and engagement with classical literature and history; there are explicit references to Great Books/Great Conversation in materials about classical education.
- Positive/Negative keyword analysis: Positive keywords present include grammar, logic, rhetoric, Great Books, Great Conversation, Greek/Latin, history, and integrated liberal arts content. No major negative signals detected in the CSA public materials.
- Why this rating: CSA's public curriculum materials map squarely onto a classical curriculum framework, with clear attention to the Seven Liberal Arts, classical languages, and engagement with foundational texts and historical study.

Element 4: Pedagogy or Teaching Methods — CLASSICAL

- Evidence: The pedagogy centers on the Trivium (grammar/logic/rhetoric) and memory-based approaches (memory work, recitation, copywork), with an emphasis on disciplined language-based formation and disciplined study of classics.
- Positive/Negative keyword analysis: Present positive signals include grammar, logic, rhetoric, memory work, recitation, and living curriculum. While specific mentions of Socratic seminars are not foregrounded in CSA materials for K–8, the grammar/logic/rhetoric framework plus memory-based pedagogy aligns with classical pedagogy; no explicit negative pedagogy signals are evident.
- Why this rating: The materials strongly reflect a classical pedagogy anchored in the trivium and in disciplined textual study and memory work. The absence of explicit Socratic seminars in K–8 is consistent with classical practice in a pre-high-school setting, so the overall pedagogy remains CLASSICAL.

Element 5: Faculty — CLASSICAL

- Evidence: Materials describe “Meet Our Faculty,” dedicated teachers, and a living-curriculum approach; small-class-size emphasis and teacher as mentors are highlighted.
- Positive/Negative keyword analysis: Positive keywords include model teachers and mentors, living curriculum, portrait of teacher, collegial culture, and teachers as core to the school. Negative signals are not apparent in the public materials.
- Why this rating: CSA positions its faculty as central to the educational mission and as mentors who embody and transmit the classical-Christian formation, aligning with the Classical keywords around “living curriculum” and “teacher as exemplar.”

Element 6: Parents & Community — CLASSICAL

- Evidence: CSA emphasizes partnership with parents, parent formation through resources and gatherings, and open campus visits; parent involvement is actively encouraged.
- Positive/Negative keyword analysis: Positive keywords include partnership with families, parent formation, home-school alignment, parent formation, open campus/visits, and parental engagement. No negative signals detected in the public materials.
- Why this rating: The school explicitly treats parents as co-teachers and engages the wider family in classical education, which aligns with the Positive keyword indicators for Parents & Community.

Aggregate Assessment All six categories signal CLASSICAL alignment, with CSA presenting a coherent classical Christian program across religious foundations, purposes/goals, curriculum, pedagogy, faculty, and parent/community engagement. The aggregate ranking is CLASSICAL.

What Would Move the Needle - Not applicable here since no category lands in SOMEWHAT CLASSICAL. CSA already aligns with core classical indicators across all six areas, including explicit Great Books/Great Conversation orientation, Trivium-based pedagogy, liturgical life, and robust parental involvement. Minor refinements could include explicitly naming “Great Books” and “Great Conversation” in more public-facing language, if desired, but these are already present in spirit and practice.

Appendix

ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE DISCLAIMER

This audit was conducted using artificial intelligence tools (including large language models and automated web-analysis scripts) to evaluate the extent to which school websites reflect or incorporate recognized principles of classical education (e.g., the trivium, emphasis on truth/beauty/goodness, integration of great books, Latin/classical languages, Socratic method, rigorous academics, moral/character formation, etc.).

Important Limitations and Caveats

1. Automated Nature: The analysis relies on AI interpretation of publicly-accessible school website content as of the date of the audit. It does not involve direct contact with schools, review of internal documents, classroom observation, or verification of curriculum implementation beyond what is stated or implied on the website.
2. Probabilistic Results: Scores and assessments are probabilistic and reflect the AI's best interpretation of available text and site structure. They are not infallible and may miss nuance, context, or recent changes not yet reflected online.
3. Subjectivity of Classical Education: "Classical Education" encompasses a range of traditions and interpretations (e.g., Dorothy Sayers' trivium model, Classical Christian Education, Great Books programs, etc.). The Humanitas Institute Audit of the Six Elements of Classical Education uses a broad, consensus-based framework derived from prominent classical education organizations and thought leaders. Reasonable people may disagree on weighting or inclusion of specific criteria.
4. No Official Endorsement or Certification: Results do not constitute official endorsement, accreditation, or certification by any classical education organization. They are provided for informational and research purposes only.
5. Potential for Error: Websites may be incomplete, poorly worded, or temporarily inaccurate. Conversely, sophisticated marketing language may create false positives. Human review by parents, educators, or classical education experts is strongly recommended before drawing final conclusions about any school.
6. Data Privacy and Ethics: Only publicly available information was analyzed. No attempts were made to access password-protected areas or collect personal data.
7. No Liability: The authors, developers, and distributors of this audit assume no liability for decisions made on the basis of these results. Users are solely responsible for their own due diligence.

By reading or using this document, you acknowledge and accept the limitations described above.