Six Elements of Classical Education School Website Audit

School: Gateway 2 Hope Christian Academy
School Website: <http://www.gateway2hopechristianacademy.org>

December 27, 2025

Disclaimer

This audit was performed using artificial intelligence tools to evaluate the presence and strength of classical education principles on school websites. Results are automated, probabilistic in nature, and should be considered indicative rather than definitive. See the full disclaimer in the Appendix for more details.

ACCS Member School

Any school that belongs to the Association of Classical Christian Schools ACCS or the Society for Classical Learning SCL is, by definition, recognized as a classical school because both organizations require adherence to the six essential elements defined by the Humanitas Institute. However, a school's website may not clearly reflect its conformity to one or more elements. In such cases, the school may still receive a "Somewhat Classical" rating for those elements. Schools can update their website content at any time to achieve a "Classical" rating for a given element.

Executive Summary

Gateway 2 Hope Christian Academy Oh 44137 presents as a Christian private school that is currently described as "Under Development" with plans to serve families in Greater Cleveland and to launch in the near future. The publicly available crawl material from the school's site shows minimal content beyond the basic identity and developmental status; there is no explicit articulation of classical education elements (e.g., Great Books, the Trivium, Great Conversation, scholé, Socratic pedagogy, memorization, or liturgical practices). Based on the Classical School rubric and the six-element framework, the school shows virtually no evidence of a classical curriculum, pedagogy, faculty formation, or parent/community partnership as defined by the Six Essential Elements. Therefore, the overall assessment is NOT CLASSICAL.

- Evidence for current publicly stated orientation: The site text identifies Gateway 2 Hope as a Christian private school intended to serve Greater Cleveland and notes that the school is in development and preparing to launch. This is explicit in the crawl content.
- Evidence gaps: There is no explicit reference to Great Books, liberal arts, grammar/logic/rhetoric, Socratic seminars, "scholé" practice, a teacher living curriculum, parent partnerships, or formal communal liturgical practices in the publicly posted materials. The absence of these classical markers drives the Not Classical rating across all six categories.

Executive Summary — Element-by-Element Snapshot

Element 1: Religious and Metaphysical Foundations — NOT CLASSICAL

- Evidence: Public materials identify the school as Christian, but there is no explicit articulation of transcendental moral realism, theological grounding across disciplines, or liturgical/community practices within the posted content. The available crawl text emphasizes identity as a Christian private school and launch status rather than a doctrinal pedagogy or liturgical rhythm.
- Positive keyword analysis: 0; Negative keyword indicators: 0 (no explicit references to classical negatives or secular alternatives in the posted content).
- Why this rating: The presence of a Christian identity alone does not demonstrate the transcendental, theological, or liturgical foundations required by the classical rubric. The absence of explicit reference to theology-integrated curricula, liturgical practices, or communal worship keeps this category from achieving a Classical status.

Element 2: School Purpose and Goal — NOT CLASSICAL

- Evidence: The site text available in the crawl centers on launching a Christian private school rather than articulating formation toward virtue, wisdom, or a true/beautiful/truth telos. The absence of stated aims such as formation over information or the cultivation of human excellence is notable in the public materials.
- Positive keyword analysis: 0; Negative keyword indicators: 0.
- Why this rating: Not enough language is present to indicate the classical purposes of formation, virtue cultivation, or contemplation (paideia). The school's current materials do not demonstrate the classical mission.

Element 3: Curriculum — NOT CLASSICAL

- Evidence: The crawl content shows no mention of liberal arts (grammar, logic, rhetoric), no Great Books, no Great Conversation, and no history-as-core study, nor any indication of cultivation through wonder. The development note and Christian private school framing do not establish a classical curriculum.
- Positive keyword analysis: 0; Negative keyword indicators: 0.
- Why this rating: Without explicit Great Books alignment, Trivium/Quadrivium structure, or a history-centered, integrated curriculum, the category cannot be rated Classical.

Element 4: Pedagogy or Teaching Methods — NOT CLASSICAL

- Evidence: No descriptive pedagogy (Socratic dialogue, scholé, memorization/chanting, or imitation-based learning) is present in the posted crawl. The content is status-oriented (Under Development) rather than method-centered.
- Positive keyword analysis: 0; Negative keyword indicators: 0.
- Why this rating: Absent is the explicit pedagogy associated with classical education; no evidence of Socratic seminars, memorization-based routines, or contemplative pedagogy in the public materials.

Element 5: Faculty — NOT CLASSICAL

- Evidence: The crawl contains no information about faculty norms, teacher modeling, or the living-curriculum concept as described in classical literature. There is no faculty profile or portrayal of teachers as virtuous exemplars in the posted content.
- Positive keyword analysis: 0; Negative keyword indicators: 0.
- Why this rating: Without any teacher-formation language or faculty portrait, there is no basis to rate Classical for this category.

Element 6: Parents & Community — NOT CLASSICAL

- Evidence: The posted crawl text does not indicate parent partnerships, community formation, or parent-education opportunities (e.g., classical book studies, school visits, or parent formation activities). It mentions serving families in the community as a plan, but there is no explicit co-teaching or parent-education framing in the public materials.
- Positive keyword analysis: 0; Negative keyword indicators: 0.
- Why this rating: Absence of explicit parent-education initiatives, partnerships with families, or community rituals prevents a Classical rating in this category.

Aggregate Ranking

- Overall classification: NOT CLASSICAL
- Rationale: Across all six categories, there is no conclusive evidence of classical curriculum, pedagogy, faculty formation, or active parent-community partnerships in the publicly posted crawl. The school's status as "Under Development" and the lack of explicit classical markers (e.g., Great Books, Trivium, scholé, liturgy, or community formation) lead to a Not Classical overall assessment.

What Would Move the Needle (applicable only if SOMEWHAT CLASSICAL)

- Not applicable here. The school is currently NOT CLASSICAL in all six categories. Major needle-moving items would include public articulation and implementation of: a Great Books-aligned curriculum and Great Conversation; the Trivium and Quadrivium as core components; explicit pedagogy including Socratic seminars, memorization/recitation, and contemplative scholé; a clearly defined faculty living-curriculum and mentoring culture; and robust parent/community partnerships with documented programs (book studies, open campus visits, and parent formation activities).

ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE DISCLAIMER

This audit was conducted using artificial intelligence tools (including large language models and automated web-analysis scripts) to evaluate the extent to which school websites reflect or incorporate recognized principles of classical education (e.g., the trivium, emphasis on truth/beauty/goodness, integration of great books, Latin/classical languages, Socratic method, rigorous academics, moral/character formation, etc.).

Important Limitations and Caveats

1. Automated Nature: The analysis relies on AI interpretation of publicly-accessible school website content as of the date of the audit. It does not involve direct contact with schools, review of internal documents, classroom observation, or verification of curriculum implementation beyond what is stated or implied on the website.
2. Probabilistic Results: Scores and assessments are probabilistic and reflect the AI's best interpretation of available text and site structure. They are not infallible and may miss nuance, context, or recent changes not yet reflected online.
3. Subjectivity of Classical Education: "Classical Education" encompasses a range of traditions and interpretations (e.g., Dorothy Sayers' trivium model, Classical Christian Education, Great Books programs, etc.). The Humanitas Institute Audit of the Six Elements of Classical Education uses a broad, consensus-based framework derived from prominent classical education organizations and thought leaders. Reasonable people may disagree on weighting or inclusion of specific criteria.
4. No Official Endorsement or Certification: Results do not constitute official endorsement, accreditation, or certification by any classical education organization. They are provided for informational and research purposes only.
5. Potential for Error: Websites may be incomplete, poorly worded, or temporarily inaccurate. Conversely, sophisticated marketing language may create false positives. Human review by parents, educators, or classical education experts is strongly recommended before drawing final conclusions about any school.
6. Data Privacy and Ethics: Only publicly available information was analyzed. No attempts were made to access password-protected areas or collect personal data.
7. No Liability: The authors, developers, and distributors of this audit assume no liability for decisions made on the basis of these results. Users are solely responsible for their own due diligence.
