Overall Classification: CLASSICAL

Executive Summary

Arrow Classical Education Kentucky (ZIP 42420) presents a clearly classical, Christian-oriented program anchored in traditional liberal arts, Great Books, and a biblically grounded worldview. Public-facing materials emphasize partnership with families, a focus on Latin and the liberal arts, and a mission to form students in faith and virtue rather than mere information or job preparation. The school's materials consistently foreground biblical faith, classical pedagogy, and the Great Books canon, with explicit statements about partnering with parents and maintaining a biblical worldview as the organizing principles of the school. Taken together, these signals align strongly with a CLASSICAL classification across most of the classical criteria, with Pedagogy showing strong classical elements but somewhat less explicit articulation of certain traditional pedagogical practices (e.g., specific Socratic or scholé rituals) in the readily visible materials.

Key evidence points include: - Mission & Vision statements tying education to loving and serving God and grounding learning in a biblical worldview, with a commitment to classical excellence and Great Books (turn0file11). - Explicit emphasis on Latin, artes liberales, and the Great Books as foundational to coursework and upper-grade excellence (turn0file11). - Public statements about strong parent partnership and family involvement (turn0file11). - Notes about classically trained teachers and a traditional classroom experience (turn0file11).

Executive Summary — Element-by-Element Snapshot

Element 1: Religious and Metaphysical Foundations — CLASSICAL

Evidence - Mission emphasizes loving the Lord with all one's heart, soul, mind, and strength, anchoring the program in biblical faith (turn0file11). - Vision explicitly grounds learning in a biblical worldview and partnership with families in shaping faith (turn0file11). - Core Principles reference the Bible and Christian aims, including a biblical worldview and Christ-centered purpose (turn0file11).

Positive/Negative keyword analysis - Positive keywords present: biblical worldview, Word of God, Following Christ, Bible, theology-related framing (turn0file11). - Negative keywords present: none observed in the available public materials (no explicit secular/values-neutral framing in the cited sections).

Why this rating - The program's public materials are explicitly theocentric, biblically anchored, and aligned with a theologically grounded foundation. The absence of secular-relativist framing and the explicit articulation of biblical formation support a CLASSICAL rating in this category.

Element 2: School Purpose and Goal — CLASSICAL

Evidence - Mission statement centers formation through faith-integrated classical education rather than vocational or purely informational aims (turn0file11). - Vision emphasizes faith formation within a classical framework and the shaping of character through a biblical worldview (turn0file11). - The emphasis on tradition, virtue, and a long-term formation pathway (e.g., formation through classical liberal arts and Great Books) appears as a core goal (turn0file11).

Positive/Negative keyword analysis - Positive keywords present: formation, virtue, wisdom, telos, liberal education, Great Books, classical mission, moral imagination (as reflected in the combination of words within mission/vision and core principles; seeand related materials). - Negative keywords present: none relevant to this category in the visible materials (no explicit job-prep or purely utilitarian framing).

Why this rating - The school is outwardly aimed at formation, virtue, wisdom, and the cultivation of human excellence within a classical, Christian frame, rather than job-prep or strictly information-based goals. This aligns with CLASSICAL.

Element 3: Curriculum — CLASSICAL

Evidence - Public materials reference the study of Latin and artes liberales, signaling the Seven Liberal Arts foundation typical of classical education, along with Great Books as central to the curriculum (turn0file11). - The Great Books and a Great Conversation framing are explicitly named in core materials (turn0file11).

Positive/Negative keyword analysis - Positive keywords present: Great Books, Latin, artes liberales, liberal arts, classical curriculum, Great Conversation, Western civilization (as reflected in the materials; turn0file11). - Negative keywords present: none observed in the accessible content (no indication of replacing history with social studies, no shift toward project-based-only curricula).

Why this rating - The curriculum signals (Latin, liberal arts, Great Books, Great Conversation) align with a classical framework. The explicit mention of artes liberales and Great Books supports CLASSICAL in Curriculum.

Element 4: Pedagogy or Teaching Methods — SOMEWHAT CLASSICAL

Evidence - The materials describe a traditional classroom atmosphere with classically trained teachers and a focus on classical excellence and Great Books (turn0file11). - There is explicit emphasis on a traditional, structured classroom experience and strong teacher presence (turn0file11).

Positive/Negative keyword analysis - Positive keywords present: classically trained teachers, traditional classroom, Great Books emphasis (turn0file11). - Negative keywords present: explicit Socratic dialogue, Scholé (restful learning), chanting/memorization, and the exact articulation of upper-school Socratic seminars or debates are not clearly present in the public materials (no direct quotes). The classical pedagogy lexicon would typically include Socratic/dialogic methods, memory work, and restfulness; these are not explicitly demonstrated in the cited public content (turn0file11).

Why this rating - The school demonstrates strong classical pedagogy through teacher quality and a traditional classroom focus, but explicit articulation of key classical pedagogical methods (Socratic seminars, Scholé, memorization/recitation, or imitation-based practice) is not clearly evidenced in the public-facing content. This yields SOMEWHAT CLASSICAL, reflecting solid classical elements with room for more explicit pedagogy articulation.

Element 5: Faculty — CLASSICAL

Evidence - The site references classically trained teachers and a traditional classroom approach (turn0file11). - There are indicators of mentoring and teacher-focused development through the public materials (e.g., teaching staff, classroom leadership) (turn0file11).

Positive/Negative keyword analysis - Positive keywords present: classically trained teachers, teachers as mentors or models, living curriculum, staff as central to learning (turn0file11). - Negative keywords present: not explicitly observed in the available materials (no explicit mention of a non-classical faculty model or disconnect between staff and curriculum in the cited content).

Why this rating - The available content emphasizes highly qualified, classical-leaning faculty and staff. This aligns with a CLASSICAL designation for Faculty.

Element 6: Parents & Community — CLASSICAL

Evidence - Public materials highlight a strong partnership with families and parental involvement as central to the school's model (turn0file11). - Vision explicitly calls for partnering with parents to ground learning in a biblical worldview, indicating a parent-centric, community-oriented model (turn0file11).

Positive/Negative keyword analysis - Positive keywords present: partnership with families, parental engagement, parent partnership, home-school synergy, family involvement, community of learners (turn0file11). - Negative keywords present: none observed in the cited content (no customer-oriented, minimal parent involvement language).

Why this rating - The school foregrounds parent partnership, parental formation, and family engagement as core features, consistent with CLASSICAL.

Aggregate Assessment

- Category ratings: CLASSICAL, CLASSICAL, CLASSICAL, SOMEWHAT CLASSICAL, CLASSICAL, CLASSICAL.
- Overall classification: CLASSICAL.

What Would Move the Needle

- Not applicable here since the overall classification is CLASSICAL. If you wanted to push Element 4 from SOMEWHAT CLASSICAL toward fuller alignment, enhancements could include:
- Explicitly articulating and implementing Scholé-inspired restful learning cycles (Scholé language, contemplative study periods, and slower-paced learning moments) in the public-facing materials.
- Clearly naming and describing Socratic seminars, Harkness-style discussions, or other dialectic practices in upper grades, including examples or syllabi.
- Providing more explicit examples of memorization/recitation or chant-based memory practices within the curriculum public materials.

ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE DISCLAIMER

This audit was conducted using artificial intelligence tools (including large language models and automated web-analysis scripts) to evaluate the extent to which school websites reflect or incorporate recognized principles of classical education (e.g., the trivium, emphasis on truth/beauty/goodness, integration of great books, Latin/classical languages, Socratic method, rigorous academics, moral/character formation, etc.).

Important Limitations and Caveats

1. Automated Nature: The analysis relies on AI interpretation of publicly-accessible school website content as of the date of the audit. It does not involve direct contact with schools, review of internal documents, classroom observation, or verification of curriculum implementation beyond what is stated or implied on the website.
2. Probabilistic Results: Scores and assessments are probabilistic and reflect the AI's best interpretation of available text and site structure. They are not infallible and may miss nuance, context, or recent changes not yet reflected online.
3. Subjectivity of Classical Education: "Classical Education" encompasses a range of traditions and interpretations (e.g., Dorothy Sayers' trivium model, Classical Christian Education, Great Books programs, etc.). The Humanitas Institute Audit of the Six Elements of Classical Education uses a broad, consensus-based framework derived from prominent classical education organizations and thought leaders. Reasonable people may disagree on weighting or inclusion of specific criteria.
4. No Official Endorsement or Certification: Results do not constitute official endorsement, accreditation, or certification by any classical education organization. They are provided for informational and research purposes only.
5. Potential for Error: Websites may be incomplete, poorly worded, or temporarily inaccurate. Conversely, sophisticated marketing language may create false positives. Human review by parents, educators, or classical education experts is strongly recommended before drawing final conclusions about any school.
6. Data Privacy and Ethics: Only publicly available information was analyzed. No attempts were made to access password-protected areas or collect personal data.
7. No Liability: The authors, developers, and distributors of this audit assume no liability for decisions made on the basis of these results. Users are solely responsible for their own due diligence.
