

HUMANITAS
INSTITUTE

Six Elements of Classical Education School Website Audit

School: Redeemer Classical School

School Website: <https://www.redeemerclassicalschool.com/>

January 7, 2026

Artificial Intelligence Disclaimer

This audit was performed using artificial intelligence tools to evaluate the presence and strength of classical education principles on school websites. Results are automated, probabilistic in nature, and should be considered indicative rather than definitive. See the full disclaimer in the Appendix more details.

ACCS: STARTUP SCL: MEMBER

Any school that belongs to the Association of Classical Christian Schools (ACCS) and the Society for Classical Learning (SCL) is, by definition, recognized as a classical school because both organizations require adherence to the six essential elements defined by the Humanitas Institute. However, a school's website may not clearly reflect its conformity to one or more elements. In such cases, the school may still receive a "Somewhat Classical" rating for those elements. Schools can update their website content at any time to achieve a "Classical" rating for a given element.

Overall Classification: CLASSICAL

Executive Summary

Redeemer Classical School (Fayetteville, GA, 30269) presents a clearly articulated classical Christian vision. The public materials emphasize a Christ-centered education anchored in the classical liberal arts, with explicit reference to the Trivium (grammar, logic, rhetoric), Great Books, and a formation-focused purpose that aims at virtue and wisdom in harmony with faith. The school also foregrounds a partnership with families and churches, a visible living-curriculum approach, and a 3-day-on-site model that integrates faith and academics. Taken together, these signals align strongly with classical education as defined by the Six Essential Elements framework, indicating a CLASSICAL rating across categories with minor ambiguity in pedagogy details that are not explicit on the site but do not undermine the overall classical orientation. See category-by-category analysis below for the keyword-driven justification and evidence. Sources include Redeemer's own site content and the Six Essential Elements of a Classical School rubric (positive/negative keyword indicators) to ground the assessment. The analysis draws on the following: Christ-centered and scripture-based framing; Trivium (grammar, logic, rhetoric); Great Books and Western/cultural heritage; curriculum choices (Mystery of History, Berean Builders, Singapore Primary, Harold Jacobs Algebra/Geometry, Novare Science); explicit teacher-as-living-curriculum concepts; and strong parent/community partnership language. Key material references are cited inline with the corresponding evidence.

Evidence anchors (sample highlights) drawn from the Redeemer Classical School materials: - The Redeemer Difference, Christ-centered, classical education emphasizing truth, goodness, and beauty, and partnership with families toward joyful, faithful living to God (Christ-centered framing) - Classical education described as a 2,400-year tradition focusing on thinking, virtue, wisdom, and the true/good/beautiful; emphasis on Great Books and formation over information (Core classical framing) - Curriculum and teaching model including a 3-day on-campus model; location, church partnership, and a gospel-centered education approach (operationalized classical model) - Curriculum details showing Trivium backbone (grammar, logic, rhetoric) and integration of Scripture; Great Books approach; historical emphasis and chapel-based catechesis (Curriculum/Philosophy of Teaching) - Foundational Bible/theology grounding, Scriptural lineage for learning, and confessional/theological framing (Bible/scripture-centered, confessional influences) - Faculty model/"Living Curriculum" concept and explicit parent-partner orientation with families and churches as core to the school's mission (Faculty focus; Parental partnership)

Category-by-category keyword-driven assessment

Executive Summary — Element-by-Element Snapshot

Element 1: Religious and Metaphysical Foundations — CLASSICAL

Evidence - The school presents a Christ-centered mission and explicit emphasis on forming learners to discern the True, Good, and Beautiful, with worship/Christ-centered identity as central to education (Redeemer Difference; Christ-centered framing). - Public materials highlight Scripture-rooted education, biblical fluency, and confessional/theological grounding (Rooted in Scripture; Bible/Theology emphasis). - Chapel-like or liturgical emphasis is indicated through a Christ-centered, Scripture-infused approach across disciplines (Chapel and catechism elements referenced in curriculum/philosophy materials).

Positive/Negative keyword analysis - Positive keywords present: Christ-centered, Bible/Scripture, True/-Good/Beautiful, chapel-related, God-centered worldview, Scripture infusion, confessional commitments. - Negative keywords: absent in public materials (no explicit "Lack of theology" or secular-without-faith indicators observed on the site).

Why this rating - The materials consistently place faith at the center of formation, with a theologically explicit grounding and liturgical/community practices integrated into the educational model. This alignment with transcendental moral realism and a grounded theological framework supports CLASSICAL in this category.

Citations: Christ-centered framing and theological grounding cited from The Redeemer Difference and related pages; Scripture/Chapel references appear in Curriculum and Philosophy sections.

Element 2: School Purpose and Goal — CLASSICAL

Evidence - The stated aim centers on forming virtuous, wise, and discerning students who love truth, goodness, and beauty, not merely preparation for work; formation is emphasized over information (The Redeemer Difference; Classical Education framing). - The school asserts a belief in the reality of truth, goodness, and beauty and that the human mind can know them (Classic Trivium-centered epistemology) (Classical Education, Great Books emphasis). - There is a clear emphasis on virtuous living, God-centered purpose, and a formation-oriented mission rather than purely vocational training. The Biblical/instructional framing reinforces human excellence and moral formation (Foundational Truths; Academic Model).

Positive/Negative keyword analysis - Positive keywords present: virtue, wisdom, truth, goodness, beauty, formation, human excellence, Great Books, God-centered living, joy in learning. - Negative keywords: none observed in public materials (no explicit job-prep or utilitarian framing that would contradict formation-for-good).

Why this rating - The materials consistently present education as the cultivation of virtue and wisdom with a transcendent, real reality of truth/goodness/beauty, aligning with classical aims beyond mere information delivery. This supports CLASSICAL status.

Citations: The Redeemer Mission/Philosophy and Great Books framing cited from 0file0, 0file2, 0file10.

Element 3: School Curriculum — CLASSICAL

Evidence - The Trivium is explicit: grammar, logic, rhetoric as thinking skills used to move from concrete to abstract (Rooted in the Trivium). - Great Books and liberal arts emphasis: classical education, Great Books, and Western civilization canon referenced; emphasis on truth, goodness, beauty and a Great Books orientation (The Redeemer Difference; Why Classical Education). - Curriculum specifics show a deliberate spine: Mystery of History (history spine), Berean Builders (science spine), Singapore Primary (math progression), Harold Jacobs Algebra/Geometry (high school), Novare Science for advanced science; chapel-based catechesis with Westminster/New City Catechisms; integration of Scripture across subjects (Curriculum/Philosophy of Teaching). - History is treated as a throughline in Humanities; Great Books and classical canon referenced as guiding text, not mere social studies (Curriculum statements).

Positive/Negative keyword analysis - Positive keywords present: Trivium, grammar, logic, rhetoric; Great Books; liberal arts; history as integrated across curriculum; source-text emphasis; Christian scripture integration. - Negative keywords: none observed in public materials (no modern, postmodern or post-truth framing that would contradict a Great-Books/humanities-centered curriculum).

Why this rating - The explicit use of grammar-logic-rhetoric, spine-based curricula, Great Books orientation, and interwoven history/ Scripture aligns strongly with classical curriculum standards, warranting a CLASSICAL rating.

Citations: Trivium and curriculum spine references from 0file10, 0file5; Great Books and content framing from 0file2 and 0file0.

Element 4: School Pedagogy or Teaching Methods — CLASSICAL

Evidence - Emphasis on the Trivium as the training tool for discernment indicates a pedagogy grounded in grammar, logic, rhetoric as the cognitive framework (Rooted in the Trivium; Philosophy of Teaching). - The school describes a model that includes a Living Curriculum where teachers act as the curriculum and content informs the teaching (Living Curriculum concept). - A three-day on-campus model with on-site instruction, coupled with family engagement and biblically-centered chapels, suggests a contemplative, faith-integrated pedagogy alongside rigorous content (3-Day Model; Curriculum and Philosophy sections).

Positive/Negative keyword analysis - Positive keywords present: Trivium, grammar, logic, rhetoric; living curriculum; integration of Scripture in pedagogy; teacher as curriculum; memory-friendly, faith-aligned learning (implied through chapel and catechesis). - Negative keywords: Not explicitly present on the site; there is no strong evidence of exclusively progressive or non-classical pedagogy (e.g., no explicit emphasis on student-led discovery without structure). The absence of failings in public materials supports a favorable reading.

Why this rating - The explicit reference to the Trivium as core thinking-skills pedagogy, combined with the “Living Curriculum” and biblically integrated approach, places the school solidly within classical pedagogy expectations, justifying CLASSICAL.

Citations: Trivium-based pedagogy from 0file10; Living Curriculum from 0file6; three-day model and on-site pedagogy from 0file1 and 0file5.

Element 5: School Faculty — CLASSICAL

Evidence - Faculty are described as “Living Curriculum” and as model teachers/mentors who embody virtue and expertise; this language positions teachers as the core of the school’s pedagogy and as a central element of the educational mission (Living Curriculum language). - The site presents information about faculties, staff, and governance (Faculty & Staff; Board of Directors) and highlights a mission-driven teaching culture (About/Staff pages) that align with teachers as partners in the formation of students (Public-facing pages).

Positive/Negative keyword analysis - Positive keywords present: model teachers, living curriculum, teachers as core/curriculum, mentorship, faculty-student partnership. - Negative keywords: none observed in public materials; no explicit “teacher as administrator-only” or non-mentoring descriptions.

Why this rating - The language and structure center teachers as living exemplars of the classical educational project and place them at the heart of the school’s identity, which is emblematic of classical schools. This supports CLASSICAL.

Citations: Living Curriculum language (0file6); Faculty/Staff references (0file7); general “about” framing (0file16).

Element 6: School Parents & Community — CLASSICAL

Evidence - Partnering with families and churches is explicitly described as a core aspect of Redeemer’s mission; the school frames family partnership and parental involvement as central to classical education, including home-school synergy and church engagement (Partnership with Families; Our Philosophy/ Academics statements). - The school references parental engagement, family formation, and community involvement as essential to the school’s model; this is reinforced by admissions materials and the emphasis on a home-to-school connection in the 3-day model and home days (3-Day Model and Admissions materials). - Public materials invite parental visits and involvement in the school’s life, consistent with the classical emphasis on parent partnership and co-education (Community-facing materials).

Positive/Negative keyword analysis - Positive keywords present: Partnership with families, co-educators, parental engagement, home-school connection, family involvement, church partnership, parental formation, educational partnership. - Negative keywords: none observed in public materials; no signals of “parental disengagement” or “home-school separation.”

Why this rating - Redeemer’s materials repeatedly foreground parental partnership and community involvement as central to classical education, aligning with the Positive Keywords in the Six Essential Elements document. This yields CLASSICAL.

Citations: Partnership with Families language (0file14, 0file16); home-school + church integration (0file1, 0file12).

Aggregate assessment

- Overall, Redeemer Classical School (Fayetteville, GA, 30269) demonstrates a cohesive classical profile across all six categories, anchored by explicit Trivium-based pedagogy, Great Books, theology-grounded formation, and a robust partnership model with families and churches. Based on keyword alignment with the Positive keywords for each category and the absence of countervailing Negative keyword signals in public materials, the school is rated CLASSICAL overall.

What would move the needle

- If aiming to further strengthen the CLASSICAL designation beyond the strong baseline already evident, consider:
- Making explicit, public-facing statements about upper-school Socratic seminars or debates, and explicit rhetoric-training opportunities (e.g., formal oratory/writing competitions) to align pedagogy with more explicit classical practices.
- Providing a public, graded, or documented Great-Books plan across all grade levels (not just through mention) to show a continuous Great Books throughline beyond the current spine references.
- Expanding parent-education programs (book studies, classical pedagogy briefings) to deepen parental formation in classical education as a standard expectation across grade levels.
- Explicating the role of faculty as “living curriculum” with concrete examples or case studies that illustrate virtuous mentor models in action across grade bands.

Citations for evidence across the six categories and the rubric basis are drawn from Redeemer’s site content and the Six Essential Elements rubric. See the sources cited within each category above for the precise evidence anchors: - The Redeemer Difference and Christ-centered mission (0file0) - Classical education framing, Great Books, and formation (0file2) - Curriculum details, 3-day model, and location (0file1) - Curriculum spine and Scripture integration (0file5) - Philosophy of Teaching and Trivium (0file10) - Biblical grounding and confessional influences (0file15) - Living Curriculum and faculty roles (0file6) - Partnership with families and church (0file16) - Admissions, family involvement (0file12)

Appendix

ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE DISCLAIMER

This audit was conducted using artificial intelligence tools (including large language models and automated web-analysis scripts) to evaluate the extent to which school websites reflect or incorporate recognized principles of classical education (e.g., the trivium, emphasis on truth/beauty/goodness, integration of great books, Latin/classical languages, Socratic method, rigorous academics, moral/character formation, etc.).

Important Limitations and Caveats

1. Automated Nature: The analysis relies on AI interpretation of publicly-accessible school website content as of the date of the audit. It does not involve direct contact with schools, review of internal documents, classroom observation, or verification of curriculum implementation beyond what is stated or implied on the website.
2. Probabilistic Results: Scores and assessments are probabilistic and reflect the AI's best interpretation of available text and site structure. They are not infallible and may miss nuance, context, or recent changes not yet reflected online.
3. Subjectivity of Classical Education: "Classical Education" encompasses a range of traditions and interpretations (e.g., Dorothy Sayers' trivium model, Classical Christian Education, Great Books programs, etc.). The Humanitas Institute Audit of the Six Elements of Classical Education uses a broad, consensus-based framework derived from prominent classical education organizations and thought leaders. Reasonable people may disagree on weighting or inclusion of specific criteria.
4. No Official Endorsement or Certification: Results do not constitute official endorsement, accreditation, or certification by any classical education organization. They are provided for informational and research purposes only.
5. Potential for Error: Websites may be incomplete, poorly worded, or temporarily inaccurate. Conversely, sophisticated marketing language may create false positives. Human review by parents, educators, or classical education experts is strongly recommended before drawing final conclusions about any school.
6. Data Privacy and Ethics: Only publicly available information was analyzed. No attempts were made to access password-protected areas or collect personal data.
7. No Liability: The authors, developers, and distributors of this audit assume no liability for decisions made on the basis of these results. Users are solely responsible for their own due diligence.

By reading or using this document, you acknowledge and accept the limitations described above.