

HUMANITAS
INSTITUTE

Six Elements of Classical Education School Website Audit

School: Veritas Preparatory School
School Website: <https://www.veritasgreenville.com/>

January 7, 2026

Artificial Intelligence Disclaimer

This audit was performed using artificial intelligence tools to evaluate the presence and strength of classical education principles on school websites. Results are automated, probabilistic in nature, and should be considered indicative rather than definitive. See the full disclaimer in the Appendix for more details.

ACCS: MEMBER SCL: MEMBER

Any school that belongs to the Association of Classical Christian Schools (ACCS) and the Society for Classical Learning (SCL) is, by definition, recognized as a classical school because both organizations require adherence to the six essential elements defined by the Humanitas Institute. However, a school's website may not clearly reflect its conformity to one or more elements. In such cases, the school may still receive a "Somewhat Classical" rating for those elements. Schools can update their website content at any time to achieve a "Classical" rating for a given element.

Overall Classification: CLASSICAL

Executive Summary

Veritas Preparatory School (Greenville, SC, 29604) presents a strong classical-education profile in public-facing materials, anchored in Christian faith, a University-Model structure, and a deliberately articulated Trivium-Quadrivium curriculum. The school emphasizes character formation, virtue, and the pursuit of truth, goodness, and beauty through a liberal-arts framework, with explicit mention of Great Books, grammar-logic-rhetoric (the Trivium), and the Quadrivium (arithmetic, music, geometry, calculus). Pedagogy centers on debate, discussion, and rhetoric, with a living-faculty model and a partnership with parents in a home-school-school hybrid. The public materials consistently tie formation of affections and moral imagination to intellectual development, and they foreground a Christian theological orientation, communal liturgy/ritual, and a family-centered, open-campus ethos. Overall, the school is decisively CLASSICAL across all six categories.

- Religious and Metaphysical Foundations: Clear Christian framing, with explicit telos tied to Christ and theology; emphasis on God, Christian identity, and biblical formation. Evidence includes "Our Telos" and the Christian, classical, University-Model identity, and biblical framing of purpose.
- Purpose and Goal: Formation-first aims (virtue, wisdom, love of God/self/neighbor) aligned with a classical telos; critique of mere information transfer; emphasis on liberal-humane formation and contemplation.
- Curriculum: A robust liberal-arts core (grammar/logical/rhetoric; Great Books; Latin/Greek; history; Quadrivium elements; Singapore Math). Evidence shows explicit Trivium and Quadrivium treatment, Great Books emphasis, and classic-curriculum content.
- Pedagogy: Seminars, debates, and rhetoric training; Socratic/humanities-oriented discussion; disciplined memory work and chant-like elements appear in classic-education discourse; University-Model structure emphasizes disciplined, ritually integrated pedagogy with parental partnership.
- Faculty: Living curriculum and mentors; professional teachers in their fields; a faculty culture framed as a core of the school and a portrait of teacher-formation.
- Parents & Community: Explicit partnership with parents as co-teachers; open, welcoming campus; parental formation opportunities; home-school integration.

Executive Summary — Element-by-Element Snapshot

- Element 1: Religious and Metaphysical Foundations — CLASSICAL
- Evidence: Clear Christian telos, God-centered purpose, biblical framing, and church-home-school integration described in Our Telos and life pages.
- Positive/Negative keyword analysis: Positive indicators include God, Christian, Bible, virtue/theology-related ideas; negative indicators (e.g., secularism) are not present. Positive keywords present substantially outweigh negative signals.

- Why this rating: The explicit religious framing and the goal of formation in a Christian framework align strongly with classical expectations for metaphysical foundations.
- Element 2: School Purpose and Goal — CLASSICAL
- Evidence: Formation- and virtue-focused telos; emphasis on loving God, neighbor, and self; contemplation/rest in line with liberal-arts formation; emphasis on Great Conversation and human excellence in mission language.
- Positive/Negative keyword analysis: Positive signals include formation, virtue, telos, liberal education, contemplation/rest, great conversation; no explicit signals promoting workforce-readiness in opposition; negative indicators (e.g., pure job-prep framing) are not present in the materials.
- Why this rating: The school emphasizes formation, virtue, wisdom, and transcendentals (truth, goodness, beauty) over mere technical/job outcomes.
- Element 3: Curriculum — CLASSICAL
- Evidence: Explicit Trivium (grammar, logic, rhetoric) with Latin/Greek; Great Books; history across the curriculum; Quadrivium (arithmetic, music, geometry, calculus); integration with Singapore math approach; study of Bible/geography/science in K-12.
- Positive/Negative keyword analysis: Positive indicators include liberal arts, trivium/quadrivium, grammar, logic, rhetoric, great books, primary sources, Latin/Greek, history, mathematics, music; no clear presence of negative indicators like “project-based dominance” in the materials.
- Why this rating: The curriculum is centered on canonical classical elements (Trivium/Quadrivium, Great Books) with explicit discipline in language and mathematics; alignment with Great-Books culture is evident.
- Element 4: Pedagogy or Teaching Methods — CLASSICAL
- Evidence: Emphasis on debate, argument, and discussion; rhetoric training; disciplined memorization/recitation elements; contemplation/rest in a scholé-like frame; University-Model pedagogy that incorporates on-campus and home instruction in a way that supports disciplined, classical learning.
- Positive/Negative keyword analysis: Positive indicators include Socratic dialogue/seminars, memory work/recitation, contemplative/restful learning, rhetoric, and great-conversation oriented practices; negative indicators such as purely experiential or project-based-only pedagogy are not evidenced in the public materials.
- Why this rating: The pedagogy embraces classic methods (Socratic/seminar-style discussion, memorization, memorized learning, and rhetoric) in alignment with classical education norms.
- Element 5: Faculty — CLASSICAL
- Evidence: Faculty described as professional teachers in their fields; living-curriculum concept; portrait of teacher-student relationship; collegial culture; emphasis on mentorship and virtue modeling.
- Positive/Negative keyword analysis: Positive indicators include living curriculum, faculty of friends/-mentors, professional expertise, and collegial culture; no signaling negatives like “facilitator-only” or “outside-of-tradition” in the public content.
- Why this rating: The materials present a traditional, virtue-oriented teacher model and a strong link between teacher conduct and curriculum—core classical cues.
- Element 6: Parents and Community — CLASSICAL
- Evidence: Explicit partnership with parents as co-teachers; open-campus/visitation; parental formation through reading groups and classical book clubs; home-school integration and support for family rhythms.

- Positive/Negative keyword analysis: Positive indicators include parent partnership/co-teachers, home-school blend, family formation, and opportunities for parent involvement; negative signals are not evident in the public materials.
- Why this rating: The school positions parents as active co-educators and cultivates a culture of family involvement and formation consistent with classical-education norms.

Aggregate Assessment

- Overall classification: CLASSICAL
- Rationale: Across all six categories, Veritas Preparatory School (Greenville, SC, 29604) demonstrates canonical classical-education hallmarks: a Christian theological frame; formation-focused aims; a curriculum built on the Trivium/Quadrivium and Great Books; classic pedagogy with debate, memorization, and rhetoric; a living-faculty model; and an explicit parent-partnership/community orientation. The public materials align closely with the Positive keyword indicators in the Six Essentials lexicon, and there is little to no indication of the negative indicators in the school's publicly available content. The aggregate signals place this school firmly within CLASSICAL territory.

What Would Move the Needle

- Not applicable: No needle-moving changes are required since the aggregate classification is CLASSICAL. If one sought minor refinements, they could include: (a) more explicit articulation of liturgical or liturgy-related practices within the public site to strengthen the Religious and Metaphysical Foundations linkage; (b) clearer, quantifiable articulation of Great-Books-reading lists and year-by-year bibliographies to further document Great Conversation engagement; (c) explicit references to scholē in lower grades to showcase contemplative practice more publicly.

Appendix

ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE DISCLAIMER

This audit was conducted using artificial intelligence tools (including large language models and automated web-analysis scripts) to evaluate the extent to which school websites reflect or incorporate recognized principles of classical education (e.g., the trivium, emphasis on truth/beauty/goodness, integration of great books, Latin/classical languages, Socratic method, rigorous academics, moral/character formation, etc.).

Important Limitations and Caveats

1. Automated Nature: The analysis relies on AI interpretation of publicly-accessible school website content as of the date of the audit. It does not involve direct contact with schools, review of internal documents, classroom observation, or verification of curriculum implementation beyond what is stated or implied on the website.
2. Probabilistic Results: Scores and assessments are probabilistic and reflect the AI's best interpretation of available text and site structure. They are not infallible and may miss nuance, context, or recent changes not yet reflected online.
3. Subjectivity of Classical Education: "Classical Education" encompasses a range of traditions and interpretations (e.g., Dorothy Sayers' trivium model, Classical Christian Education, Great Books programs, etc.). The Humanitas Institute Audit of the Six Elements of Classical Education uses a broad, consensus-based framework derived from prominent classical education organizations and thought leaders. Reasonable people may disagree on weighting or inclusion of specific criteria.
4. No Official Endorsement or Certification: Results do not constitute official endorsement, accreditation, or certification by any classical education organization. They are provided for informational and research purposes only.
5. Potential for Error: Websites may be incomplete, poorly worded, or temporarily inaccurate. Conversely, sophisticated marketing language may create false positives. Human review by parents, educators, or classical education experts is strongly recommended before drawing final conclusions about any school.
6. Data Privacy and Ethics: Only publicly available information was analyzed. No attempts were made to access password-protected areas or collect personal data.
7. No Liability: The authors, developers, and distributors of this audit assume no liability for decisions made on the basis of these results. Users are solely responsible for their own due diligence.

By reading or using this document, you acknowledge and accept the limitations described above.